Summer Camps for Kids

Active Minds is offering a full slate of summer camps for kids in two streams. The first is for the younger generation (ages 6 to 9) and the second is for the slightly older crowd (ages 10 and up).

Each week will feature a different

Science PALS: This camp will look at some of the science and technologies that we are already using that will shape our future and explore where they come from. Even something as simple as a match has an armazing amount of science behind it. This camp with explore the world that we know and the world that will come. It is for all students interested in a career as a scientic.

Eco-Science: The week explores the science behind being green, whether it is cooking with solar panels or a car that uses hydrogen as a fuel or finding a way to light a house without using fossil fuels. It is all about the environment around us. This camp will stress outdoor activities that take advantage of the natural and abundant environment around us. It's about living in a sustainable green world.

Healthy Life!: This week will focus on various aspects of the life sciences and on health, from growing bacteria to a healthy lifestyle. We will also explore how the body works through interactive games and physical activities.

How to Engineer Everything!: Engineers dream of what might be and then try to bring their dreams into being—whether it is a bridge, a space station, building a light bulb, or a clean water project. Engineering is a hands-on activity.

Computers Can Walk!

Active Minds features computer camps that will allow you to explore the world of robotics in a hands-on learning environment that will challenge your mind.

Computers Can Talk! Active Minds features computer camps that will allow you to explore the world of computers in a hands-on learning environment that will challenge your mind.

NEW THIS YEAR! Engineering 100 and Engineering 200 These courses are for older students interested in exploring the fascinating discipline of engineering. Engineering 100 introduces design concepts, material manipulation, and construction. Engineering 200 expands on the concepts to include large scale construction of kinetic and static structures using wood and other renewable materials.

Theatre Camps!

Lights! Actors!

Theatre! This summer, Active Minds is offering a chance to explore the world of theatre.

Each camp will allow students to explore the many parts involved in putting together a production, from the writing of a script to designing sets, costumes, and lighting, to directing and performing in plays. These camps will be capped off by the production for young actors and presentation of an original work for older kids!
